

APPENDIX "E".

ATTEMPT TO DELAY THE SPENDING OF A WIRELESS MESSAGE.

R. A. Gill stated that he is an operator at the Wireless Station, Belize, that not long after 9:15 p.m. on the 22nd July last, while he was on duty, he heard a voice shout "Gill, Gill", and that he opened the window and asked who it was, and that a Contingent man answered, "If a message is sent, we want you to delay it"; and that another one said, "Smash the instruments if possible"; and that he answered "No, man, I cannot do that"; and that he told them to beat it and closed the window; and that later on he heard another voice shout his name, and that he went to the window, and the person asked him to come down, and that he went down and saw that it was a Contingent man, who said, "If a message is sent can you delay it"; and that he (Gill) said "no"; and that the person said "All right if you cannot - if there is any trouble in it, I do not want you to get into trouble at your job"; and that just then a motor<sup>car</sup> rushed by and the person went to the back.
